Help the South Carolina Relic Room preserve the McRae Collection!

This large collection of documents belonged to the Confederacy's chief financial agent in Europe during the latter half of the Civil War. Much is still left to be understood about the history of Confederate importing from Europe and these papers will help bridge the gap. However, the preservation of these documents comes at a cost. The Relic Room is nearing the fulfillment of the bank loan and needs your help to complete this task.

When you subscribe to Civil War Historian magazine with this coded form, $5.00 will go directly to this effort. We are committed to bringing you a highly professional, graphically pleasing magazine that contains articles relevant to both the living historian and professional or armchair historian. Each issue will be filled with general Civil War history, social history, event reports, preservation news, and much, much more.

Don't hesitate, subscribe today and help the Relic Room preserve the McRae Collection!
